The fertiliser industry employs a large number of professionals in various functional areas of fertiliser business. These include fresh graduates as management trainees, graduate engineer trainees, supervisor trainees, sales officer trainees, etc. There are also large numbers of middle level executives. It is necessary to provide exposure to all these executives to various facets of the fertiliser industry including its macro economic environment. Accordingly, a three-day orientation programme was developed by FAI and has been conducted several times in past. The programme has always received overwhelming response.

The topics and the subjects are tailor made to suite the requirement of the target group. The faculty for the programme is drawn from the industry and the FAI's Secretariat.
